What Pediatricians Need to Do to Prepare Their Practices for Meaningful Use and the Incentive Program

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, signed into law in February 2009, includes the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act, which provides guidance from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) (Table 1) on

- Establishing a set of specific requirements to be considered certified electronic health record (EHR) technology
- Establishing a series of criteria to which health care providers and hospitals must adhere to qualify as meaningful users of health information technology and receive incentive payments
- Establishing a series of quality measures on which providers and hospitals must report to receive the incentive payments

Table 1. Demonstration Requirements for Meaningful Use (Stage 1)
Criteria	Eligible Providers
Satisfy proposed meaningful use objectives.	Attestation (for CY and FY 2011) through a secure mechanism
Satisfy proposed meaningful use objectives, other than quality measures.	Attestation (for payment years beginning in CY/FY 2012 and beyond) through a secure mechanism
Satisfy the objective, "Submitting quality measures to CMS or the states."	Electronic reporting of clinical quality measures (for payment years beginning in CY/FY 2012 and beyond)

CY, calendar year; FY, fiscal year; CMS, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services.

Pediatricians can receive a maximum payment of $63,750 over 6 years. Providers must begin receiving incentive payments by 2016. Allowable costs include purchase, implementation, upgrades, support services, integral related training, and costs of operating, maintaining, or using.

The definition of meaningful use will initially focus on a few key functions.

- Capturing health care data in a structured electronic format
- Using electronic clinical decision support for a few of your highest-priority clinical issues
- Sharing clinical summaries with patients and other members of the patient's health care team.

The requirements will increase in complexity over a 5-year period.
